

MAAME AGYEBEN

Maame Agyeben is an Associate Economic Affairs Officer in the Trade Facilitation Unit of the Trade, Investment and Innovation Division, United Nations ESCAP.

Her work covers research, analysis and capacity building related to trade facilitation, particularly for agricultural trade in the Asia-Pacific region. Areas of focus include business process and supply chain analysis; automation of agricultural procedures; standards and certification for agricultural trade and sustainable development.

Previously, she served in the subregional office of the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa in Lusaka, Zambia and also the United Nations Department for Economic and Social Affairs in New York.

Prior to joining the United Nations she worked as a programme coordinator for an NGO in Copenhagen, Denmark specializing in refugee and migrant issues. She holds a Master's Degree from the London School of Economics and Bachelor's degree in Economics and Politics from the University of Sheffield.